Forte 2018

Fabrice Rimlinger

Business title: Program Manager, Supply Chain
Finalized by: Helder Velho, helderv@

---

Employee portion

What are you most excited about at work?

Opening new territories, mentoring news team members and sharing the knowledge gathered during the 2 last launch campaigns. Consider a large amount of aspect of a project, prioritize, remove ambiguity and facilitate decisions among stakeholders. Provide support whenever needed so others can move forward and remain focused on the project. What I hate though is unnecessary bureaucracy.

When you're at your best, how do you best contribute?

Problem solving, finding a constructive solution that requests out the box, unorthodox thinking (DCT3 MDS blitz deployment - Sourcing XPT in Malaga and Cadiz in 24h - use playbook as a database and automate reporting in Excel). Mentoring and helping team mates and Amazonians. I hope that the demonstration has been noticed after 2 succesful New country launch campaign.

Which Leadership Principles do you demonstrate when you are at your best?

Invent and Simplify
Leaders expect and require innovation and invention from their teams and always find ways to simplify. They are externally aware, look for new ideas from everywhere, and are not limited by "not invented here." As we do new things, we accept that we may be misunderstood for long periods of time.

Learn and Be Curious
Leaders are never done learning and always seek to improve themselves. They are curious about new possibilities and act to explore them.

Ownership
Leaders are owners. They think long term and don't sacrifice long-term value for short-term results. They act on behalf of the entire company, beyond just their own team. They never say "that's not my job."

What growth ideas do you have for yourself?

(no response)

Are there any Leadership Principles you want to focus on for growth?

Hire and Develop the Best
Leaders raise the performance bar with every hire and promotion. They recognize exceptional talent, and willingly move them throughout the organization. Leaders develop leaders and take seriously their role in coaching others. We work on behalf of our people to invent mechanisms for development like Career Choice.

Think Big
Thinking small is a self-fulfilling prophecy. Leaders create and communicate a bold direction that inspires results. They think differently and look around corners for ways to serve customers.

Insist on the Highest Standards
Leaders have relentlessly high standards - many people may think these standards are unreasonably high. Leaders are continually raising the bar and drive their teams to deliver high quality products, services and processes. Leaders ensure that defects do not get sent down the line and that problems are fixed so they stay fixed.

---

Feedback

You bring a lot of strengths to your work at Amazon. What stands out for me is:

Fabrice superpower is his ability to engage with his stakeholders and earn their trust. He takes his professionalism and great project management capability to influence, cajole and deliver the requirements and at the same time building relationships. Seldom do great project managers have the scrapiness and bias for action which he demonstrates when needed

Here are the super powers your peers provided:

> Ability to manage and guide multiple workstreams for project launch. A calm, rational and intelligent focus on resolving critical issues.

> Amazing project management and problem solving skills. He can overcome the most complex and difficult situations and stays positive all the time.

> Builds great relationships and is instantly someone who is trusted in a team, these relationships give fabrice a powerful skill in getting sh*t done! Hugely infuluencial in the launch of ES last year and his bias for action came out at its best when rescuing Catalonia'n peak by landing the first MDS in his own style.

> Fabrice is a great delivery man of results. And he delivers with just a few resources, specially not many people in the AMZL organization for the country he launches. He feels good when moving around different parts of the company and getting things done from others, internal and externals. He is an achiever. Excellent dealing with ambiguity and reporting up.

> Fabrice is a great delivery results manager. He get ownership in the projects helping all the stakeholders in order to get the target.

> Fabrice is a master at dealing with ambiguity with a positive approach. He engages and enthuses wide spread teams to ensure results are delivered. He manages to challenge individuals without coming across as too direct and by doing so ensures you Think Big in a supportive environment. When working with Fabrice you know tasks will always be delivered.

> Fabrice is a super energetic and dynamic manager that naturally spreads motivation to the people involved on his projects. He is super fast at identifying risks and shows great bias for action by quickly implementing actions to mitigate them. Fabrice is great at dealing with stress, by facing the most difficult moments with optimism and passing this along to others.

> Fabrice is a very technical and experienced PM. Teams relate to him on playbook and other project management tools.
> Planning very complex multi projects programs, getting the stakeholders engaged and delivering on time is his biggest strength.

Fabrrice consistently deliver-results on time and reliably. He has shown great skills on bias-for-action to fix issues or adapt to urgent needs.

Fabrice is one of the best project managers I've ever met. He can deal with a multidisciplinary team, listening, empowering, convincing everybody and making things happen. He can manage a project in a way that hides most of the admin burden from the other team members. His enthusiasm is contagious.

Fabrice's super powers are his calmness and positivity. I worked with Fabrice on a large scale, cross functional launch with an aggressive launch date and expansion plan however at no point did he seem stressed or anxious. This demeanor filtered down to the rest of project team and was essential for a successful launch and ramp up pre-peak.

Fabrice's superpowers are ' to have backbone and commit' and' bias for action', both very important for launch managers as it is important to take decisions even without having all the detailed information in this fast moving environment. Fabrice doesn't have a problem moving out of his comfort zone to get the job done.

Great organiser, and great deliver result oriented manager. He understands very quickly complex and ambiguos situations, indentifies the right solutions and easily earn the trust of involved teams.

His ability to Dive Deep into problems and find timely but customer focussed solutions. Fabrice has a great aptitude to Invent and Simplify processes which take him into areas of the business which he is unfamiliar but he learns and is curious to provide solutions.

I can see essentially 2 superpowers in Fabrice: (i) program management skills, by far ones of the best I have seen in AMZN so far, and (ii) his capacity in building automated reporting that comes in very handy to track, drive, and communicate progress as part of his daily activities. Thanks to this he contributed successfully to AMZL ES launch.

I had the chance to work with Fabrice during Spain AMZL launches. He demostrated not only passion but also to be a great profesional, always dedicated to achieve his goals and to help other in achieving theirs. He is also a very kind person to talk and work with, and when it is needed, he can disagree with great commitment.

Strong individual contributor that does not give up and volunteers his support.

The super power of Fabrice is to have everything under control and to trust in others. He has take over Spain launches in Spain making them all successful, with a new and short team delivering great stations to Spain for first. Always ready to listen and give a push. Super Fabrizio!

The Leadership Principles are a key component of Amazon culture. Your peers, direct reports (if applicable), and I think you best demonstrate the following Leadership Principles:

Deliver Results
12 responses (1 manager, 11 peers)

Leaders focus on the key inputs for their business and deliver them with the right quality and in a timely fashion. Despite setbacks, they rise to the occasion and never settle.

Ownership
10 responses (1 manager, 9 peers)

Leaders are owners. They think long term and don't sacrifice long-term value for short-term results. They act on behalf of the entire company, beyond just their own team. They never say "that's not my job."

Bias for Action
9 responses (1 manager, 8 peers)

Speed matters in business. Many decisions and actions are reversible and do not need extensive study. We value calculated risk taking.

Earn Trust
5 responses (5 peers)

Leaders listen attentively, speak candidly, and treat others respectfully. They are vocally self-critical, even when doing so is awkward or embarrassing. Leaders do not believe their or their team's body odor smells of perfume. They benchmark themselves and their teams against the best.

Insist on the Highest Standards
4 responses (4 peers)

Leaders have relentlessly high standards - many people may think these standards are unreasonably high. Leaders are continually raising the bar and drive their teams to deliver high quality products, services and processes. Leaders ensure that defects do not get sent down the line and that problems are fixed so they stay fixed.

Customer Obsession
3 responses (3 peers)

Leaders start with the customer and work backwards. They work vigorously to earn and keep customer trust. Although leaders pay attention to competitors, they obsess over customers.

Invent and Simplify
3 responses (3 peers)

Leaders expect and require innovation and invention from their teams and always find ways to simplify. They are externally aware, look for new ideas from everywhere, and are not limited by "not invented here." As we do new things, we accept that we may be misunderstood for long periods of time.

Think Big
2 responses (2 peers)

Thinking small is a self-fulfilling prophecy. Leaders create and communicate a bold direction that inspires results. They think differently and look around corners for ways to serve customers.

Have Backbone; Disagree and Commit
2 responses (2 peers)

Leaders are obligated to respectfully challenge decisions when they disagree, even when doing so is uncomfortable or exhausting. Leaders have conviction and are tenacious. They do not compromise for the sake of social cohesion. Once a decision is determined, they commit wholly.

Frugality
1 response (1 peer)

Accomplish more with less. Constraints breed resourcefulness, self-sufficiency and invention. There are no extra points for growing headcount, budget size or fixed expense.

Dive Deep
1 response (1 peer)

Leaders operate at all levels, stay connected to the details, audit frequently, and are skeptical when metrics and anecdote differ. No task is beneath them.

We know that leaders are never done learning and always seek to improve themselves. Below are the growth ideas your co-workers and I provided. We hope you find these ideas useful.

Growth ideas from me:

I would like to see Fabrice leading more with the wider EU team and utilizing his communication skills to drive cohesion within the team. I see large potential for Fabrice to grow in the organisation by focusing on his personal leadership style.

Growth ideas from your peers:

> At the moment Fabrice is a sole contributor so Hire and Develop the best is an area of growth. His role has also transitioned over the last 12 months and he will benefit from focussing on ownership for his new projects going forward.

> Communication and empathy are two subjects to improve in order to growth with the business.

> Fabrice has no time for bureaucracy, undue administration and other artificial barriers to progress. Sometimes how ever I feel he expends more energy going his own way than he would just complying with these hurdles. Strong bias for action and ability to remove road blocks should not be lost but due process unfortunately has to be followed.

> Fabrice has so much knowledge and experience to offer on large scale ambiguous projects it would be great to see him impart this knowledge to other less PM focused teams

> Fabrice should develop his leadership, not only of stakeholders but of direct (or dotted line) teams of PMs.
> Fabrice should be put in a situation where he will show his resilience to ambiguous management and his abilities in managing expectations upward by sharing details and actions plans. Delivering results is paramount, the how and the communication is a must.

> He does not feel good with routines and AMZ procedures and bureaucracy. He needs also to close the projects and get attention into details. As he thinks so big, does not mind a lot about little things. Also needs to communicate better, he´s good when he communicates but needs to improve when others requires his support.

> Sharing of knowledge / experience with peers on issues faced during project launches and solutions employed.  Take on a wider role to help develop skills within AMZL launch team

> Strengthening his people management skills will definitely help to get to the next level.

> With the EU centralization, Fabrice should use his strong PM skills, and help the EU Launch team improve in the way they perform their daily activities. Building up the EU launch SharePoint where anyone can go and understand the status of each of the different EU/Ctry/DS launches would be very helpful.

Here are the Leadership Principles your peers, direct reports (if applicable), and I suggest you focus on for growth:

Hire and Develop the Best
6 responses (1 manager, 5 peers)

Leaders raise the performance bar with every hire and promotion. They recognize exceptional talent, and willingly move them throughout the organization. Leaders develop leaders and take seriously their role in coaching others. We work on behalf of our people to invent mechanisms for development like Career Choice.

Insist on the Highest Standards
4 responses (1 manager, 3 peers)

Leaders have relentlessly high standards - many people may think these standards are unreasonably high. Leaders are continually raising the bar and drive their teams to deliver high quality products, services and processes. Leaders ensure that defects do not get sent down the line and that problems are fixed so they stay fixed.

Earn Trust
4 responses (1 manager, 3 peers)

Leaders listen attentively, speak candidly, and treat others respectfully. They are vocally self-critical, even when doing so is awkward or embarrassing. Leaders do not believe their or their team's body odor smells of perfume. They benchmark themselves and their teams against the best.

Ownership
2 responses (2 peers)

Leaders are owners. They think long term and don't sacrifice long-term value for short-term results. They act on behalf of the entire company, beyond just their own team. They never say "that's not my job."

Dive Deep
2 responses (2 peers)

Leaders operate at all levels, stay connected to the details, audit frequently, and are skeptical when metrics and anecdote differ. No task is beneath them.

Customer Obsession
1 response (1 peer)

Leaders start with the customer and work backwards. They work vigorously to earn and keep customer trust. Although leaders pay attention to competitors, they obsess over customers.

Invent and Simplify
1 response (1 peer)

Leaders expect and require innovation and invention from their teams and always find ways to simplify. They are externally aware, look for new ideas from everywhere, and are not limited by "not invented here." As we do new things, we accept that we may be misunderstood for long periods of time.

Think Big
1 response (1 peer)

Thinking small is a self-fulfilling prophecy. Leaders create and communicate a bold direction that inspires results. They think differently and look around corners for ways to serve customers.

Have Backbone; Disagree and Commit
1 response (1 peer)

Leaders are obligated to respectfully challenge decisions when they disagree, even when doing so is uncomfortable or exhausting. Leaders have conviction and are tenacious. They do not compromise for the sake of social cohesion. Once a decision is determined, they commit wholly.

Thank you!