Forte 2021

Fabrice Rimlinger

Business title: Program Manager, Supply Chain
Finalized by: Chris Young-Wootton, cyoungwo@

Performance rating

Exceeds

The performance summary is defined by the results you have delivered, compared to the expectations for your role and level. Managers use multiple sources (e.g. goals, regularly collected feedback, metrics, impact on customers, etc.) and consider all Leadership Principles when determining this rating.

Employee portion

What are you most excited about at work?

Managing a coaching my team is certainly the exciting part of my job. I have been caoching peaople in dotted line, but having my team, share my vision, provide a structure and empower talented people is a thrill.

When you're at your best, how do you contribute?

Separate signal from noise. Seek solutions. Innovate, try, fail, try, succeed. I add value by removing obstacles for my team and coach them in their decision making process (benefits of seniority). I try to base my decision on facts, not opinions.

Which Leadership Principles do you demonstrate when you're at your best?

Learn and Be Curious
Leaders are never done learning and always seek to improve themselves. They are curious about new possibilities and act to explore them.

Hire and Develop the Best
Leaders raise the performance bar with every hire and promotion. They recognize exceptional talent, and willingly move them throughout the organization. Leaders develop leaders and take seriously their role in coaching others. We work on behalf of our people to invent mechanisms for development like Career Choice.

Dive Deep
Leaders operate at all levels, stay connected to the details, audit frequently, and are skeptical when metrics and anecdote differ. No task is beneath them.

What growth ideas do you have for yourself?

I still suck at promoting myself and politics is not my thing. I should probably stand up more during key calls and influence outcomes. Unfortunately DD is only put on the spot (and "scape_goated") when reports are not delivered quick enough, usually as a consequence of issues I cannot influence (WHS). No fun.

Are there any Leadership Principles you want to focus on for growth?

Earn Trust
Leaders listen attentively, speak candidly, and treat others respectfully. They are vocally self-critical, even when doing so is awkward or embarrassing. Leaders do not believe their or their team's body odor smells of perfume. They benchmark themselves and their teams against the best.

Have Backbone; Disagree and Commit
Leaders are obligated to respectfully challenge decisions when they disagree, even when doing so is uncomfortable or exhausting. Leaders have conviction and are tenacious. They do not compromise for the sake of social cohesion. Once a decision is determined, they commit wholly.

Super powers

You bring a lot of strengths to your work at Amazon. What stands out for me is:

Fabrice has transformed and grown the due diligence team through 2020. He has earned the trust of his team but his clear superpower is his ability and desire to build processes and metrics to measure performance. His due diligence wiki page makes it far easier to onboard new starters, especially during Covid when working from home.

Here are the super powers your peers provided:

> Fabrice has been instrumental in reshaping the DD team and how it interacts with the its customers. The introduction and improvement of the DD intake progress is a good example. He also listens to customers needs, working on solutions to prioritise critical path activity whilst maintaining workload churn. I experienced this during requests for multiple test fit drawing.

> Fabrice is a great team player. He can really deliver results to AMZL business in the DD space. He has put in place a team and program that can deliver the required level of output to L&E, RE, D&C, and other functions. He is a team player, always communicates positively. He has earned the trust of the teams he works with via having an "open door" policy and a "get it done" approach.

> Fabrice's super powers may be his experience, his in-depth technical knowledge and his exceptional computer skills, but more than this I believe they are his problem-solving abilities and coaching/managerial skills. Fabrice is the go-to person for many things AMZ. His willingness to help and explain patiently are a big asset for the RE team.

> This year Fabrice has support our business needs in expediting the due diligence process for the new sites. Fabrice has the ability to clearly explain the needs of his team to help his team help us getting results faster.

> i respect Fabrice a lot, he is very knowledgeable in a lot of fields and all that feeds into his role bringing a new perspective and new ways of delivering. He is very process oriented which I admire and has been able to structure the DD function coping with a very challenging program and providing more visibility to the other teams

Here are the super powers your direct reports provided:

> Fabrice always takes ownership in situations/projects I needed support. I never had such a structured and problem-orientated manager before in my business career. He is always searching for new ways to simplify our process and involves > always the complete team to find new ways or solve problems. He also dives deep to make the right decisions.

> Fabrice dives deep on every process and every product he and his team delivers because he insists on higher standards. He simplifies and expedite the processes while he increases the quality of final product. Fabrice gives back people the time that they don't have in the first place.

> Fabrice has excellent, wide ranging knowledge of effective navigation across Amazon. Fabrice knows the tools, the history and the background combining this with a genuine curiosity to learn, challenge and innovate, constantly raises the bar. Fabrice is never afraid of process refinement and pushes the boundaries, throwing out the saying 'if it isn't broken...', Fabrice always asks...can it be better?

> Fabrice has revolutionised how the team operates, using his knowledge to help the team leverage data to get to the right answer at pace, whilst exploring options for improvements to ways of working (eg Shield, DD Intake and DD Summary).
>
> Every member of the team is empowered to make decisions, but where support is required it is provided.

> Fabrice's a driven person, always focused on adding value to the output of the Team by implementing new methods/tools to deliver reliable results, earn the trust of our customers and keep the process straight, clear and simple as much as possible.
> He's the remarkable ability of keeping the Team's members engaged all the time, key to succeed in our mission.

The Leadership Principles are a key component of Amazon culture. Your peers, direct reports (if applicable), and I think you best demonstrate the following Leadership Principles:

Invent and Simplify
7 responses (2 peers, 5 directs)

Leaders expect and require innovation and invention from their teams and always find ways to simplify. They are externally aware, look for new ideas from everywhere, and are not limited by “not invented here.” As we do new things, we accept that we may be misunderstood for long periods of time.

Think Big
4 responses (1 manager, 2 peers, 1 direct)

Thinking small is a self-fulfilling prophecy. Leaders create and communicate a bold direction that inspires results. They think differently and look around corners for ways to serve customers.

Insist on the Highest Standards
3 responses (3 directs)

Leaders have relentlessly high standards - many people may think these standards are unreasonably high. Leaders are continually raising the bar and drive their teams to deliver high quality products, services and processes. Leaders ensure that defects do not get sent down the line and that problems are fixed so they stay fixed.

Earn Trust
3 responses (3 peers)

Leaders listen attentively, speak candidly, and treat others respectfully. They are vocally self-critical, even when doing so is awkward or embarrassing. Leaders do not believe their or their team’s body odor smells of perfume. They benchmark themselves and their teams against the best.

Deliver Results
3 responses (3 peers)

Leaders focus on the key inputs for their business and deliver them with the right quality and in a timely fashion. Despite setbacks, they rise to the occasion and never settle.

Customer Obsession
2 responses (2 peers)

Leaders start with the customer and work backwards. They work vigorously to earn and keep customer trust. Although leaders pay attention to competitors, they obsess over customers.

Ownership
2 responses (1 peer, 1 direct)

Leaders are owners. They think long term and don't sacrifice long-term value for short-term results. They act on behalf of the entire company, beyond just their own team. They never say "that's not my job."

Learn and Be Curious
2 responses (2 directs)

Leaders are never done learning and always seek to improve themselves. They are curious about new possibilities and act to explore them.

Hire and Develop the Best
2 responses (1 manager, 1 direct)

Leaders raise the performance bar with every hire and promotion. They recognize exceptional talent, and willingly move them throughout the organization. Leaders develop leaders and take seriously their role in coaching others. We work on behalf of our people to invent mechanisms for development like Career Choice.

Are Right, A Lot
1 response (1 direct)

Leaders are right a lot. They have strong judgment and good instincts. They seek diverse perspectives and work to disconfirm their beliefs.

Dive Deep
1 response (1 manager, 0 peers or directs)

Leaders operate at all levels, stay connected to the details, audit frequently, and are skeptical when metrics and anecdote differ. No task is beneath them.

Have Backbone; Disagree and Commit
1 response (1 direct)

Leaders are obligated to respectfully challenge decisions when they disagree, even when doing so is uncomfortable or exhausting. Leaders have conviction and are tenacious. They do not compromise for the sake of social cohesion. Once a decision is determined, they commit wholly.

Growth ideas

We know that leaders are never done learning and always seek to improve themselves. Below are the growth ideas your co-workers and I provided. We hope you find these ideas useful.

Growth ideas from me:

Fabrice is great at building processes to solve problems. He should always take a step back and understand the bigger picture when implementing a new process. His new DD intake form was a great initiative that he introduced but without discussing it before launching it meant that solving one problem actually created another downstream. Noneltheless, one of the best at producing metrics to support workload and performance.

Growth ideas from your peers:

> Fabrice knows how the various teams at AMZ RE operate. Perhaps getting to know the organization upstream more closely would help. The due diligence process is probably now understood by all at the local level, thanks to Fabrice's efforts. However, getting the upper levels to grasp the local specificities seems to be an elusive goal, though an important one, in my opinion.

> Fabrice should grow a bigger team to focus on how to forecast big show stoppers eralier at site selection reducing the quantity of sites we drop due to reasons such as traffic, environmental, permitting. He shoudl expand into a PP DD in addition to permitting DD. He shoudl expand onto EV DD to deliver quicker results there. Overall his impact to date is great but it coudl go further into earlier flag raising and covering more areas of DD as AMZL embarques also into susitainability, PV etc.

> From a project perspective, DD analysis is a pain point as it takes time when we don't have much of it, but it is a necessary process. Fabrice experience gives him the opportunity to detect how to accelerate the due diligence process or agree on different methods on how to secure sites without having to wait for final results if we have are confident the results will be positive or may have a mitigation plan needed.
>
> It would be helpful to understand WHS point of view and see if there are trade-offs we can make to help project timelines. It seems like there are WHS requirements that are a bit too high when comparing to standards or unrealistic for EU.

> I would encourage Fabrice to become more curious about Real Estate processes that happen outside Amazon, how developers and local authorities operate. Developing a greater awareness of this will allow him to identify potential improvements to processes and support TM's in identifying potential deal blockers at an early stage in DD.

> work with D&C in drafting an end to end risk management process starting with the DD team and finishing once the risk is mitigated > improve the communication of DD results to D&C team, maybe sending an email with the conclusions when it´s sent to Launch? we have visibility on this when the CAR is put together but not before, unless we go into the folder and dive deep into each report

Growth ideas from your direct reports:

> Fabrice could work on his narrator skills. When interacting people, he can show more patience to explain his growth ideas with a richer background information to provide more clarity to the other person.

> Fabrice could work on setting clear goals for the DD team and seeing these through to closure. For example resetting of the DD team meetings to encourage more data driven meetings and a more informal check ins as a DD team. This would help the DD team become more data focused and aligned in process & reporting.

> Fabrice should sometimes push back a little more restrained in situations when colleagues try to push-through decisions he is not comfotable with.

> He's a known reliable manager,but his pragmatic approach,along with new tools and metrics,is unreasonably not always appreciated by int.customers.
> Within the DD Team,we understand what's behind his thoughts (he's always happy to explain) and we shared his approach,but I would suggest him to find a way to get int.customers (Snr Mgrs) more familiar with his/Team's approach and earn their trust.

> Would like to see Fabrice given the opportunity to share more widely his knowledge of using data/systems and the tools already at our disposal to greater effect.
>
> Working with other teams in this way would lead to process improvements across the wider teams and business.

Here are the Leadership Principles your peers, direct reports (if applicable), and I suggest you focus on for growth:

Hire and Develop the Best
3 responses (2 peers, 1 direct)

Leaders raise the performance bar with every hire and promotion. They recognize exceptional talent, and willingly move them throughout the organization. Leaders develop leaders and take seriously their role in coaching others. We work on behalf of our people to invent mechanisms for development like Career Choice.

Think Big
3 responses (1 manager, 1 peer, 1 direct)

Thinking small is a self-fulfilling prophecy. Leaders create and communicate a bold direction that inspires results. They think differently and look around corners for ways to serve customers.

Earn Trust
3 responses (1 peer, 2 directs)

Leaders listen attentively, speak candidly, and treat others respectfully. They are vocally self-critical, even when doing so is awkward or embarrassing. Leaders do not believe their or their team’s body odor smells of perfume. They benchmark themselves and their teams against the best.

Dive Deep
3 responses (1 manager, 2 peers)

Leaders operate at all levels, stay connected to the details, audit frequently, and are skeptical when metrics and anecdote differ. No task is beneath them.

Insist on the Highest Standards
2 responses (1 peer, 1 direct)

Leaders have relentlessly high standards - many people may think these standards are unreasonably high. Leaders are continually raising the bar and drive their teams to deliver high quality products, services and processes. Leaders ensure that defects do not get sent down the line and that problems are fixed so they stay fixed.

Have Backbone; Disagree and Commit
2 responses (1 peer, 1 direct)

Leaders are obligated to respectfully challenge decisions when they disagree, even when doing so is uncomfortable or exhausting. Leaders have conviction and are tenacious. They do not compromise for the sake of social cohesion. Once a decision is determined, they commit wholly.

Invent and Simplify
1 response (1 peer)

Leaders expect and require innovation and invention from their teams and always find ways to simplify. They are externally aware, look for new ideas from everywhere, and are not limited by “not invented here.” As we do new things, we accept that we may be misunderstood for long periods of time.

Are Right, A Lot
1 response (1 peer)

Leaders are right a lot. They have strong judgment and good instincts. They seek diverse perspectives and work to disconfirm their beliefs.

Learn and Be Curious
1 response (1 peer)

Leaders are never done learning and always seek to improve themselves. They are curious about new possibilities and act to explore them.

Deliver Results
1 response (1 direct)

Leaders focus on the key inputs for their business and deliver them with the right quality and in a timely fashion. Despite setbacks, they rise to the occasion and never settle.

Thank you!